NOTES:

The above statistics reflect the MA in Counseling Psychology – Clinical Mental Health Counseling concentration only.

These data reflect the 2020-21 academic year; they do not reflect current CP CMHC MA program statistics.

The percentage of courses taught by adjunct faculty only reflects concentration courses and does not include elective courses.

The Counseling Psychology department at the University of Denver’s Morgridge College of Education includes two programs: Counseling Psychology and School Counseling. Faculty data has been provided both at the department and program level.
